

Assessment
Intervention
Moving On

Job Specification

Qualifications

Essential qualifications

There is no specific professional qualification required as we welcome applications from a wide range of professional backgrounds, however, we do expect applicants to have advanced professional qualifications in a field of work which is relevant to harmful sexual behaviour (HSB) work.

Desirable qualifications

Qualifications in strategic management/ business studies

Qualifications in technical communications, training and development or working in a digital world

Qualifications in PR and marketing

Work experience and skills

Essential experience

The applicant must be able to demonstrate significant experience and their innovative practice in working in the field of children and young people with Harmful Sexual Behaviours (HSB), which may include having written papers and/or articles.

They must also demonstrate that they have significant experience in senior management or strategic leadership of an organisation.

Desirable experience

Experience of working with technology including how they have used their technical ability and skills to create and lead developmental projects.

Experience of working with government departments, expert advisor and lobbying skills

Experience of creative PR and marketing projects

Personal qualities and behavioural traits

Essential qualities or behaviours

To be able to lead and develop people, projects and organisations

Ability to critically analysis information and situations, often in time pressured circumstances

Excellent written and verbal communication skills

Good networking skills nationally and internationally

Creativity and problem-solving skills

Desirable qualities or behaviours

Attention to detail and editing skills for quality assurance of the resources